BLEW INTO LAMP --OIL EXPLODED

Gettysburg Woman slightly Burned when Oil in Lamp Exploded following an Effort to Blow out the Lamp.

The explosion of a coal oil lamp at the home of Edward A. Weaver on West High street threatened serious injury to Mrs. Weaver and disastrous consequences to the residence.

Mrs. Weaver was at her home in the evening when a coal oil lamp started to smoke and when she tried to turn down the wick was unsuccessful. She then blew into the chimney with such force that the flame was blown into the bowl of the lamp, the oil blazing up and burning Mrs. Weaver severely about the face. Her hair was slightly singed and her eyebrows and eyelashes burned.

The table cloth caught fire but the flames were beaten out by Miss Lorna Weaver, a daughter, who happened to be there. The bowl of the lamp did not burn and Mr. Weaver, arriving on the scene, soon extinguished what little flame was left.

Mrs. Weaver's burns were quickly given attention and she is suffering little as a consequence of her unpleasant experience.

NEW YORK GIRLS HIKING THIS WAY

Will Follow National Highway to Secure Large Reward. Gettysburg on Route of Two Girls' Pedestrian Trip.

Automobilists, motor cyclists, bicyclists and male pedestrians have passed through Gettysburg over the national highway, and now two pretty girls are to start on a trip from New York to Tampa, Florida. The New York World says:

"Two young women of contrasting color scheme—one being a blonde and the other a brunette—will start the morning after New Year's for a tramp to Tampa, Florida. They will set out from No. 215 Covert street, the home of Miss Dora Harrison, the brunette, known as Evergreen. The blonde is Miss Mabel Saunders, of Richmond Hill.

"The two girls—the brunette, is 19 and the blonde 20—will walk on a wager of $5,000 made by M. Hirschfeld, of Brooklyn, with Mrs. Harrison, the brunette's mother. The terms of their oral contract bind them to take with them as they start only a few cents necessary to take them over the ferries. They plan to earn their way by selling something, but what that something is neither will tell.

"Tramps will have no terrors for these young women. Both are expert shots and each will carry a revolver. These will be only for the footpad, mad dog or mouse. For the ordinary style tramp they will carry stout sticks. Hand mirrors, hairpins, powder puffs and small toilet articles will be carried in a small grip sack.

"Their walking skirts will come to their shoe tops, and they will wear light but warm coats and sweaters.

"Miss Saunders and I are going to win that bet for mamma," said Miss Harrison at her home yesterday, "and we are going to have all sorts of fun doing it. Both of us are good pedestrians. We have not laid out the route for the first day, but it will certainly include a call at the city hall, where we'll ask Mayor Gaynor to give us a letter to the mayor of Tampa.

"Fifteen miles will be the limit for any one day. We estimate that we will be in Tampa in about four months.

"Mr. Hirschfeld has left it to our honor to walk the whole distance and he won't be disappointed. We'll report by postal card each evening."

THEY KILLED DOES

The State Game Commission is receiving reports every day of does being shot during the deer hunting season and prosecutions being brought against the offenders. It is estimated that there will be fifty prosecutions this year, as sportsmen all over the state have kept careful watch on the infringers of the law and have reported them to the commission as fast as they got the evidence. One case is mentioned of a Cumberland county constable who went over into Franklin county and shot a doe and thought he could get away unobserved. The commission promises to make an example of him, and will try to give him the limit in punishment.

A Peculiarity of Carrots.

Although carrots are among the most commonly cooked vegetables in various forms—stewed, boiled, puree, soups and introduced into ragouts, braises and mints—yet they are among the least digestible of vegetables; but, strange to say, notwithstanding their indigestibility, so far as regards form and substance, they are not known to cause any digestive derangement.

The great affection which cooks and their masters have for carrots can only be explained by their color, which makes an impression on the eye, and their flavor and sweetness, which speak to the palate.—Pall Mall Gazette.

HER JUDICIAL FRIEND

By SARAH BRYCE VAUGHAN

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

"Well, Ruth, tell me frankly, what do you think of my lover?"

"Frankly, Amy, I don't like his looks. He is not to be depended upon."

"Oh, heavens!"

"I am sorry I said it. Don't let it trouble you for an instant. You asked me for my opinion of him, not some one else's opinion. Try again; ask others. If they agree with me, drop him. If they do not, pay no attention to what I have said."

"That's just like you, Ruth. You have taken a wise course—a judicious course—I may say a judicial course. Men say that we women should never be judges or jurymen. Your action disproves this. You have given me the benefit of your impressions, but have admonished me that unless I get confirmatory evidence to pay no attention to them."

"I trust you will show yourself as worthy to receive them as you consider me worthy to give them."

"What do you mean?"

"That you are under no consideration to reveal to your lover the fact that I have even given you any opinion."

Amy Brickwell thought a moment, then said, "I suppose I shouldn't, so I won't—that is, if you won't let me."

"Certainly, I won't let you! Do you promise?"

"Yes, I promise."

"If you tell that will end our friendship forever."

Miss Brickwell asked a number of persons what they thought of her lover, and not one confirmed the opinion of her friend. Indeed, all those she consulted told her that they had been very much pleased with his person, and those who knew him spoke very highly of him. This lifted a load from her shoulders. She religiously kept faith with her friend, refraining from mentioning the matter between them to her lover or any one else.

But a time came when she began to wonder if Ruth were not right, after all. The lover's calls became less and less frequent. He grew undemonstrative. There could be no doubt that he was preparing to throw off the chain that bound him to his fiancée. One evening when he showed this disposition she said to him:

"I was warned against you soon after we became engaged."

"Who warned you?"

"I have promised not to tell that."

"Was your friend man or woman?"

"Woman."

"Well, why didn't you take her advice and shake me?"

"The person who warned me was a very superior woman. After warning me she told me to get the opinion of others, and if they did not confirm hers I was to pay no attention to what she had said. You see, she had a judicial mind."

"And you asked the others?"

"I did, but it turned out she knew better than they."

"I should like to know the name of this judicial person."

"That you can't know."

"And you supposed that the people you asked for their impressions of me, knowing that you were engaged to me, would tell you the truth?"

"I asked them all to be frank."

"Stupid!"

It's not pleasant to be called a fool. Miss Brickwell pouted, but said nothing.

"I'm going to tell you something," said her fiancée. "I have heard reports about you that have needed investigation. After a man is married he should scout evil reports about his wife; before marriage it is better that they should be cleared up. I'm going to make a confession as well. An old flame of mine has appeared on the scene, and I've been with her a great deal lately."

"You have?"

"Yes, I have, my reason being that I suspected she was the author of these reports about you. I concluded to renew my devotion to her for detective purposes. I have found out nothing as yet, but I hope to soon. She supposes me to be on the eve of breaking with you and renewing my engagement to her."

"The horrid thing! Who is she?"

"I am not just yet ready to tell you. I may suspect her wrongfully. If so you will never know. But this person whose judicial talent you appreciate so highly—I'm not going to ask you to break a promise, but I'm going to mention the name of a woman I suspect. You need make no reply. I caught all the information I require without one. I suspect Ruth Swain."

The young lady started.

"I am confirmed in the opinion," her lover continued, "that your judicial friend and my former fiancée, who expects soon to be re-engaged to me, are one and the same person."

The girl first turned red, then pale. Her lover clasped her in his arms.

"Sweetheart," he said, "whether or no Miss Swain has a judicial mind, you have not. It was her object to exercise her judicial faculties to send you to Coventry. But she overreached herself by trying to do too much. Had you been as dishonorable as she I would have got at the bottom of it all long ago. But I would rather have you stupid than dishonorable. Now let us dismiss it from our minds."

Indeed, there was nothing more to say.

Mean.

"Yes, it was George's idea to give me a silver spoon for every birthday."

"How many has he given you?"

"Why, twenty-two."

"Why did he stop?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The One Thing Necessary.

"Has little Mrs. B. consoled herself over her husband's death yet?"

"Oh, no; not yet. You know what a long time these insurance companies take to pay?"—Simplicissimus.

BLEW INTO LAMP --OIL EXPLODED

The explosion of a coal oil lamp at the home of Edward A. Weaver on West High street threatened serious injury to Mrs. Weaver and disastrous consequences to the residence.

Mrs. Weaver was at her home in the evening when a coal oil lamp started to smoke and when she tried to turn down the wick was unsuccessful. She then blew into the chimney with such force that the flame was blown into the bowl of the lamp, the oil blazing up and burning Mrs. Weaver severely about the face. Her hair was slightly singed and her eyebrows and eyelashes burned.

The table cloth caught fire but the flames were beaten out by Miss Lorna Weaver, a daughter, who happened to be there. The bowl of the lamp did not burn and Mr. Weaver, arriving on the scene, soon extinguished what little flame was left.

Mrs. Weaver's burns were quickly given attention and she is suffering little as a consequence of her unpleasant experience.

NEW YORK GIRLS HIKING THIS WAY

Will Follow National Highway to Secure Large Reward. Gettysburg on Route of Two Girls' Pedestrian Trip.

Automobilists, motor cyclists, bicyclists and male pedestrians have passed through Gettysburg over the national highway, and now two pretty girls are to start on a trip from New York to Tampa, Florida. The New York World says:

"Two young women of contrasting color scheme—one being a blonde and the other a brunette—will start the morning after New Year's for a tramp to Tampa, Florida. They will set out from No. 215 Covert street, the home of Miss Dora Harrison, the brunette, known as Evergreen. The blonde is Miss Mabel Saunders, of Richmond Hill.

"The two girls—the brunette, is 19 and the blonde 20—will walk on a wagon of $5,000 made by M. Hirschfeld, of Brooklyn, with Mrs. Harrison, the brunette's mother. The terms of their oral contract bind them to take with them as they start only a few cents necessary to take them over the ferries. They plan to earn their way by selling something, but what that something is neither will tell.

"Tramps will have no terrors for these young women. Both are expert shots and each will carry a revolver. These will be only for the footpad, mad dog or mouse. For the ordinary style tramp they will carry stout sticks. Hand mirrors, hairpins, powder puffs and small toilet articles will be carried in a small grip sack.

"Their walking skirts will come to their shoe tops, and they will wear light but warm, coats and sweaters.

"Miss Saunders and I are going to win that bet for mamma," said Miss Harrison at her home yesterday, "and we are going to have all sorts of fun doing it. Both of us are good pedestrians. We have not laid out the route for the first day, but it will certainly include a call at the city hall, where we'll ask Mayor Gaynor to give us a letter to the mayor of Tampa.

"Fifteen miles will be the limit for any one day. We estimate that we will be in Tampa in about four months.

"Mr. Hirschfeld has left it to our honor to walk the whole distance and he won't be disappointed. We'll report by postal card each evening."

THEY KILLED DOES

The State Game Commission is receiving reports every day of deer being shot during the deer hunting season and prosecutions being brought against the offenders. It is estimated that there will be fifty prosecutions this year, as sportsmen all over the state have kept careful watch on the infringers of the law and have reported them to the commission as fast as they got the evidence. One case is mentioned of a Cumberland county constable who went over into Franklin county and shot a doe and thought he could get away unobserved. The commission promises to make an example of him, and will try to give him the limit in punishment.

COMMANDER W. S. SIMS.

His Remarks at London Dinner Offends Germany.

SIMS MUST EXPLAIN HIS ODD REMARK

Statement at London Banquet Offends Germany.

Washington, Dec. 29.—Commander William S. Sims, commanding the United States battleship Minnesota, of the Atlantic fleet, may be called upon officially to explain a remark he made in London on Dec. 3, on the occasion of a dinner which was given by the London authorities to the officers of the visiting fleet.

Commander Sims was quoted at the time as saying that it was his personal opinion that in the event of war between Great Britain and a European enemy the English people "could count upon every man, every dollar and every drop of blood of their kindred across the sea."

While such a sentiment would ordinarily attract but little attention, it stirred up enough fuss to attract the official attention of the secretary of the navy, for the German newspapers, already piqued because the American fleet's cruise did not include German ports, took up Commander Sims' remark as the basis for more unfriendly criticism.

It is understood that Commander Sims has practically admitted the accuracy of his reported statement, and that President Taft now has the matter under consideration. Any disciplinary action which may be taken will probably be in the nature of an official reprimand, it is said, as the officers of the navy department do not consider the offense of sufficient importance to warrant a court martial.

MUST "MUZZLE" HAT PINS

Kansas City Adopts Ordinance, But Doesn't Tell How.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 29.—Women here must muzzle their hatpins or they will be liable to a fine of from $1 to $500.

The upper and lower branches of the city council passed the hatpin ordinance. Mayor Brown has said that he will sign it. How the hatpins shall be muzzled is not stated in the new ordinance. That the women must figure out for themselves.

Poisoned Liquor Kills Two.

New York, Dec. 29.—A man and a woman are dead and two other men are seriously ill in hospitals as a result of drinking liquor said to have contained wood alcohol at a lower West Side Christmas celebration last Monday night. The dead are Mrs. Maria del Giudice, twenty-two years old, and Rocco del Marco. The condition of the other two men is said to be serious. All attended a Christmas feast for which the host had laid in a large store of wine, of which the party all drank freely. Soon afterward four members of the company were taken violently ill.

Tickled Lion; Lost Two Fingers.

San Francisco, Dec. 29.—While visiting the winter quarters of a wild animal show, John Kellert, of Knights Landing, Cal., was told that he could make a lion yawn by tickling his chin. John tried, with the result that he is now in a hospital nursing a hand from which two fingers are missing.

There are two traps who will spend a half day at a country auction and not buy a secondhand halter who would consider it a trial to spend fifteen minutes setting a supply of fuel for the kitchen stove.

Poultry experience points plainly to the fact that hens will not only lay better, but keep in a more healthy condition, if they are kept in relatively small flocks. In case disease appears the advantage of such separation is seen at a glance.

DYING MAN RAN FAST TRAIN

Engineman Succumbs to Heart Disease on Express.

WAS UNCONSCIOUS IN CAB

Shut Off Steam and Brought Train to a Stop Before He Collapsed—Died in Baggage Car.

Lancaster, Pa., Dec. 29.—With the last ounce of strength left to him, Henry C. Beck, driver of the Pittsburgh express over the Pennsylvania railroad, shut off his engine and brought it to a stop at Witmer station near this city.

As the air clamped the brakes fast to the flying wheels, and brought them to a halt, Beck sank into unconsciousness beside his throttle. A few minutes later he died in the baggage car as the train, in charge of his fireman, was rushing to Lancaster in a futile race for aid.

When Beck left Philadelphia he seemed in robust health. If he felt any twinge of the fatal illness that seized him while the train was in full career later he gave no sign of it.

As Witmer station, five miles east of Lancaster, was approaching, Beck was taken with the attack. He felt it come on him, realized that he was about to be overcome, and then worked with desperation to stop his train before it should spin on with a nerveless hand at the throttle. He shut off steam and applied the air, and the string of cars came to a sudden, jarring halt in Witmer station.

Find Engineman Unconscious.

Witmer is not a point of call for the Pittsburgh express, and the fireman, conductor and the rest of the train crew hurried to the engineman's cab to ask questions. His unconscious form beside the throttle answered them before they were asked. The completeness of the collapse in which they found him and the sudden stop of the train told plainly enough of how grimly the stricken engineman had fought off the darkness that was engulfing him until he could make his train and passengers safe.

The train crew carried Beck to the baggage car, where he was laid out on a pile of hastily-doffed coats. Dr. Samuel Dixon, state health commissioner, was aboard the train, and he responded quickly to the call for a physician that went through the passenger cars. He diagnosed Beck's attack as heart disease as soon as he had made an examination.

With the fireman at the throttle the train was speeded on to Lancaster in the hope of obtaining treatment for the engineman in time to save his life, but the dash was useless. Beck died without regaining consciousness before the five miles between Witmer and Lancaster were half traveled.

The body was taken off at Lancaster, and the express went on with another engineman in charge. Beck's home is in Philadelphia.

DARING SKATERS DROWN

Three Boys Venture on Thin Ice and Two Lose Lives.

Seaford, Del., Dec. 29.—Disregarding the warning of several spectators, seventeen-year-old John Cook, son of E. Cook, of Bridgeville, and eighteen-year-old Clarence Clymers, of Philadelphia, and the adopted son of M. J. Waters were drowned.

Cook, in company with George Ruos, Jr., aged sixteen years, son of Postmaster Ruos, of Bridgeville, came to Seaford for an outing. Joining Clymers, they went to Williams' dam to skate. As the lads approached the pond they were warned not to go on it, but they paid no heed to the warning.

They were several yards from shore when Ruos broke through, and Cook, going to his assistance, fell in also. Clymers, seeing their perilous position, went to their assistance, but he also broke in. Ruos was rescued, but Cook and Clymers sank from sight and did not rise again. Their bodies were found several hours later.

Heiress Deluged With Proposals.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 29.—Left a fortune of $100,000 three weeks ago, Miss Alma Stanley, a young teacher in the Atlanta public schools, is being deluged with letters from men who want to marry her. Miss Stanley estimates that she has received over a thousand offers of marriage by mail in two weeks. The offers came from all sections of the United States.

Snowballs Save Burning House.

Washington, Pa., Dec. 29.—Snow, when the water supply failed, saved the residence of L. H. Ramsey here, when fire started in the washhouse. Neighboring farmers were called over the telephone, and almost three-score volunteer fire fighters subdued the flames with large snowballs and buckets of snow.

Two Found Dead in Huts.

Windsor Castle, Pa., Dec. 29.—Henry Schultz, of Windsor Furnace, who lived in a small shanty with a wife and three children, died in the hut after being ill for six weeks without medical attention. Charles Young, a half breed Indian, was also found dead in a hut at the Six Mile house.

If the young pigs "go down behind" as a result of leg or back weakness, or both, it is more than likely that the ration which they have been receiving has not contained the amount of bone forming material which it should. This should be furnished in the shape of wood ashes, or, better, in cob charcoal, with which some salt and a little sulphur should be mixed. This should be prepared and placed where the hogs can eat of it whenever they like.

THE ONLY WAY

Many Gettysburg Citizens Have Discovered It.

Just what to do when the kidneys are affected, is a question that concerns both young and old. Weak kidneys neglected in childhood lead to life-long suffering. People of advanced years, with less vitality, suffer doubly. In youth or age, languor, backache, urinary irregularity, dizziness and nervousness make life a burden.

There is one remedy that acts directly on the kidneys and cures these troubles. Doan's Kidney Pills owe their world-wide fame to the fact that they cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Follow the example of this Gettysburg citizen and you will be convinced that this is so.

Mrs. Frank Tawney, 38 Breckenridge street, Gettysburg, Pa., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been used in my family with excellent results."

I publicly endorsed them 2 years ago and hold just as high an opinion of them at this time. A member of my family was afflicted with kidney trouble for years and probably inherited it. This person suffered a great deal from pains in his back and sides and was unable to control the kidney secretions. A cold always aggravated the complaint. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a box at the People's Drug Store and their use effected a complete cure. For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. GIRL KILLS ANNOYER

Declares Persistent Wooer Followed Her and Attacked Her With Knife.

Uniontown, Pa., Dec. 29.—Washington Height died from a gunshot wound said to have been inflicted by Daisy Meade, whom he followed to her home at Republic.

The girl was at the home of William Taylor, when Height entered, and, it is stated, renewed his suit, so often rejected.

The girl became angry and Height attempted to walk home with her. When in front of her brother's house, she says, he pulled a knife from his pocket and attacked her. She did not hesitate, but shot him.

Miss Meade hastened to tell of the tragedy and the man was taken to the hospital. The woman was arrested. There were no witnesses, but a part of the girl's story has been substantiated.

BARS MRS. HOWE'S PORTRAIT

Boston Art Board Closes Faneuil Hall to Memorial.

Boston, Dec. 29.—The municipal arts commission has refused to permit a portrait of the late Mrs. Julia Ward Howe to be placed in Faneuil Hall. Shortly after the death of the author of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" a memorial committee made preparations to have a portrait of her painted and placed in Faneuil Hall.

Secretary J. Templeton Coolidge, Jr., of the municipal arts commission, said that the commission had decided to refuse to sanction this and that a more appropriate memorial to Mrs. Howe would be a bust in the Boston public library. Portraits of Washington, Lincoln and other famous Americans hang in Faneuil Hall, "the cradle of liberty."

POOL ROOMS WELCH, BETTORS DECLARE

Sports Lose Big Winnings on Horse Race.

Wilmington, Del., Dec. 29.—Because proprietors of pool rooms, one in Walnut street and the other on Thirteenth street, Philadelphia, "welched" on the bets they took on the horse Oakhurst, which ran second in the second race at Jacksonville, a crowd of Wilmington horsemen, highly incensed at the treatment they received, came near causing trouble for them.

Oakhurst was marked up at 60 to 1. 20 to 1 and 10 to 1, and a tip was received in Wilmington by certain horsemen to play him. About fifteen Wilmingtonians, well known in sporting circles, journeyed to Philadelphia prepared for a killing. Each of them had a wad of the long green.

In order to make sure, they played the horse straight across the board, they separated and put up their money in the two pool rooms mentioned. Oakhurst finished second, and there was much joy in the camp of the delegation, but this was turned to sorrow and then rage when the pool room men "welched" and refused to pay the prices.

After much heated argument a compromise was effected and the winners received 8 to 1, instead of 20 to 1, for place, and 4 to 1, instead of 10 to 1, to show. The Wilmington horsemen estimate that they were done out of $5000, and they are highly indignant.

SICK WOMAN A SUICIDE

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 29.—Miss Sadie M. Peck, aged fifty-one years, daughter of the late Rev. Luther Peck, at one time pastor of the Adams Avenue M. E. church, was found on the floor of the kitchen at her home with her throat cut.

Miss Peck had taken her own life with an ordinary kitchen knife. Despondency, due to ill health, caused her to make an end to life.

Schuykill Haven, Pa., Dec. 29.—"Catch me," cried George Halderman to his wife as he sat by the stove. She hurried forward and caught him in her arms just in time to keep him from falling on the stove. When she attempted to place him back upon his chair she found that he was dead.

While there is little question that rapid settlement of the Pacific northwest has tended to break up the large range areas for sheep and cattle and for the time being to reduce the output of these animals, it is the view of those who have been watching the introduction of more diversified forms of farming that in the more favorable sections at least more stock will be raised under the new era of ownership of smaller areas than was produced under the old.

Wonderful Remedy

That's What is Said of Stomach Prescription Guaranteed by The People's Drug Store

Stephen Waite of Lansing, Michigan, writes:

For over three years I suffered much pain and annoyance from stomach disease. I had no help from my digestive organs apparently, and my food would stay in my stomach and ferment, causing gas; there was also a dizzy headache. I doctored and used every remedy that I heard of, but it remained for MI-O-NA to cure me entirely. Before I used three boxes my appetite and digestive organs became all right. It is a wonderful remedy."

COWS' RESTING PERIOD.

Interim Between Lactations Beneficial. Feed For Dry Cattle.

We believe a cow should have a rest of six or eight weeks between the periods of lactation, says Hoard's Dairyman. It is necessary to begin drying up a cow ten days to two weeks before she is turned out of the barn with the dry cows. It is well, however, after she appears to be entirely dry, to examine her udder at least for a week or two after she is turned out, for it is barely possible there will be some accumulation of milk that ought to be removed. Some cows are more difficult to dry up than others, but it is the customary practice to leave some milk in the udder after each milking. When the cow's milk production has decreased to ten or twelve pounds daily, milk her but once and not milk her clean at this time. Milking once a day continues for a short time and then every other day.

If a young cow is not permitted to have a short rest it affects her development. She will usually not grow to be as large an animal as she would had she had an opportunity to rest between her first and second lactation periods, at least eight weeks. For the heifer somewhat undersized we prefer a rest of three months. There are cows, however, that it is next to impossible to dry up, and in this case, we believe, rather than take any chances on forcing an animal dry and by so doing be likely to cause inflammation of the udder or perhaps loss of a quarter of the same, we would not force persistent milkers dry. Dry cows should receive nutritious feed, but they should not be permitted to get flabby in their tissue. If they seem somewhat thin in flesh it is a splendid time to feed some grain and put them in good physical condition before calving.

If they are in good flesh, then good roughage in the form of roots, silage, clover hay and alfalfa is quite enough to feed, letting them have a liberal allowance of the succulent and dry forage.

Feed comparatively rich in protein can be given to cows at this stage, as a rule, unless it is desirable to add some flesh. The ration good for the

Gray Hair Restored
My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliant. Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it. MRS. E. A. Grew Hair on a Bald Head
For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is fairly covered and keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement. STEPHEN BACON, Rochester, N. Y.

MAN HUNT ON FOR "INSANE" BANKER

Detectives Seek Robin Whose Institution Was Closed.

IS BARRED FROM ASYLUM

Fugitive Appeared Too Feeble to Stand and Is Spirited Away by His Sister in Big Auto.

New York, Dec. 29.—Joseph G. Robin, financier, broker, paranoic, all in rapid succession, whose interim check operations closed the Northern bank, of New York, appeared at the Erie railroad ferry station in Jersey City with his sister, Dr. Louise Robinovitch, and then vanished in a big automobile driven away at high speed.

Detectives from the district attorney's office at the time were scouring the city for him, following the announcement from Dr. Carlos F. MacDonald's sanatorium at Central Valley, N. Y., where Robin sought refuge on Tuesday morning, that the financier had been requested to take his departure and had left for New York, accompanied by his sister.

While the detectives were vainly searching for him Robin sat in the ferry waiting room in Jersey City, while his sister spent nearly an hour in the telephone booths, apparently arranging for the automobile.

The affair had resolved itself into a man hunt, with Financier Robin at the unknown end of the hunt. Depositors, detectives, newspaper men, alleged friends and avowed foes were all very anxious to know his whereabouts.

Tottering and Broken.
Reporters found him getting out of an Erie train at Jersey City. He was apparently tottering and broken, and was wholly relying for guidance on his sister, Dr. Louise Robinovitch.

Miss Robinovitch went into the telephone booths and stayed there for an hour, calling a great many numbers. Robin sat in the dark ferry waiting room, cowering out of the reach of the curious and either unable or unwilling to answer any questions.

His sister emerged from the telephone booths at last and rescued him. She was asked if she did not wish to make a statement in Robin's behalf as to his hopes and especially his immediate destination.

She replied that she had nothing whatever to say.

What the pair were awaiting became suddenly apparent when the Twenty-third street ferryboat pulled in. Aboard it was an automobile carrying only a chauffeur. The machine was a high powered roadster bearing the number 23651 N. Y. Into it Robin was hustled by his sister, who followed and nodded to the chauffeur. The chauffeur shot his machine out of the runway as if he knew where he was headed for. He nearly knocked down a delivery wagon as he went.

Fleeting glimpses of as much of the financier as appeared between the collar of his great coat and the hat pulled down over his brows had showed as the most prominent features a discolored like a birthmark on the side of the neck, an unkempt gray mustache and feverish, restless eyes. He seemed so feeble that he could hardly walk to the auto and had to be helped in.

The best information obtainable places the loss from Robin's operations at more than $800,000. The capital and surplus of the bank is about $900,000, so that if this estimate is correct the depositors may expect payment in full, the expenses of receivership under the banking department being nothing. How soon the depositors will get their money depends on the character of the securities to be realized on in case the bank is liquidated and does not reopen its doors.

POWDER EXPLOSION BURIES WORKMEN

At Least Five Were Killed and Many Injured.

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 29.—Attempting to blast away a slag pile at the El Paso smelter, workmen accidentally exploded 2400 pounds of blasting powder and came near wrecking the plant of the American Smelting and Refining company, second largest in the world, damaged it considerably, caused a loss of at least five lives and the injury of over a score.

Property was damaged severely in the immediate vicinity of the explosion and windows were broken three miles away. Many small houses of Mexicans in the vicinity of the smelter were badly damaged, and in these most of the injured were located. The men were tunneling beneath the slag pile when the explosion occurred, and the tunnels saved those who escaped with their lives, as the slag merely poured down around them and they survived until dug out.

Guillermo Dominguez and Florentino Naitaro have been taken out dead, and as nothing could be heard from five men unaccounted for and believed to be in tunnel No. 3, nearest the explosion, they are all supposed to be dead. Those in other tunnels had talked from their prisons to their rescuers. All are Mexicans.

Mrs. Marcenti Hernandez was killed by a flying rock which crashed through the roof of her home several squares from the scene of the explosion.

DESERTED AT ALTAR

Dublin, Ga., Dec. 29.—While Collier Walker, a leading business man of Atlanta, was waiting in a church here with his attendants for the arrival of Miss Olive Leonard, to whom he was to be married, the young lady was eloping with Thomas Beall, an old lover.

After the wedding party had waited before the altar half an hour a telegram was handed to Walker. It was from Miss Leonard and announced that she had just been married at Wrightsville, Ga., to Beall.

Beall and Miss Leonard left Dublin in an automobile and hurried on to Wrightsville, where they were married while Walker was waiting at the altar. Beall and Walker were friends, and the former was to have been an attendant at Walker's wedding.

DUKE TO LIVE IN CANADA

Buy 1300 Acres in Alberta and Will Build a Mansion.

Ottawa, Dec. 29.—A real live English duke is coming to Canada to live in the province of Alberta, according to a statement issued here by one of the government publicity offices.

He is the Duke of Sutherland, who has bought 1300 acres of land from the Canadian Pacific railway. The duke is going to divide the estate into small farms. He will come to Canada early in the spring of 1911. It is the intention of the duke to build a mansion for himself and the duchess in the middle of a park and pleasure ground, and it is to determine the kind of structure that he proposes to erect that he made up his mind to take the trip. It is his intention to spend a large part of each year in Canada.

Ash Pit a Fatal Couch.

Mauch Chunk, Pa., Dec. 29.—George Cossimer, while looking for a night's lodging, selected one of the ash pits below the New Jersey Central round house. His peaceful slumbers were broken during the night by the dropping of a boxful of red-hot ashes from a locomotive. The man was so severely burned that he was taken to the Palmerton hospital, where he died during the night.

INSANE, INHERITS $200,000

Ward of Government May Never Be Able to Use His Wealth.

Washington, Dec. 29.—Though Frank Healy, for seventeen years an inmate of the government hospital for the insane, is sole heir to an estate worth nearly $200,000, left him by his brother, James A. Healy, a druggist, he may never be able to use any of it.

The probate court was advised of Healy's incompetence to manage the estate and a committee of administrators was appointed. The court was informed that when the news of his brother's death was imparted to Healy at the asylum he neither responded nor gave any sign of understanding what was being told him.

At the death of the present heir the estate will be given to the nearest relatives of the dead druggist, who are cousins.

POWDER EXPLOSION BURIES WORKMEN

At Least Five Were Killed and Many Injured.

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 29.—Attempting to blast away a slag pile at the El Paso smelter, workmen accidentally exploded 2400 pounds of blasting powder and came near wrecking the plant of the American Smelting and Refining company, second largest in the world, damaged it considerably, caused a loss of at least five lives and the injury of over a score.

Property was damaged severely in the immediate vicinity of the explosion and windows were broken three miles away. Many small houses of Mexicans in the vicinity of the smelter were badly damaged, and in these most of the injured were located. The men were tunneling beneath the slag pile when the explosion occurred, and the tunnels saved those who escaped with their lives, as the slag merely poured down around them and they survived until dug out.

Guillermo Dominguez and Florentino Naitaro have been taken out dead, and as nothing could be heard from five men unaccounted for and believed to be in tunnel No. 3, nearest the explosion, they are all supposed to be dead. Those in other tunnels had talked from their prisons to their rescuers. All are Mexicans.

Mrs. Marcenti Hernandez was killed by a flying rock which crashed through the roof of her home several squares from the scene of the explosion.

Dublin, Ga., Dec. 29.—While Collier Walker, a leading business man of Atlanta, was waiting in a church here with his attendants for the arrival of Miss Olive Leonard, to whom he was to be married, the young lady was eloping with Thomas Beall, an old lover.

After the wedding party had waited before the altar half an hour a telegram was handed to Walker. It was from Miss Leonard and announced that she had just been married at Wrightsville, Ga., to Beall.

Beall and Miss Leonard left Dublin in an automobile and hurried on to Wrightsville, where they were married while Walker was waiting at the altar. Beall and Walker were friends, and the former was to have been an attendant at Walker's wedding.

AMERICANS ARE LASHED, DEPORTED

Refused to Bury Pauper Dead in Honduras.

IN PRISON FOR 25 DAYS

Were Lashed With Whips by Soldiers and Left Penniless and Without Food in Forest.

Puerto Cortez, Honduras, Dec. 29.—William Barber, of Kentucky, and two other Americans were seized by Honduran police and soldiers, thrown into jail and brutally lashed with whips, and were afterward deported on the Honduran gunboat Tumbala to Guatemala territory and landed penniless in the forests.

According to an affidavit made by Barber and corroborated by witnesses, the dispatch states, he was taken by the police of Puerto Cortez while he was walking along the street and ordered to go with two other Americans, also in custody, and bury a Honduran pauper.

Refusing to do as he was told, Barber, who was foreman of a bridge gang on the Honduran railroad, was taken to jail, surrounded by soldiers with fixed bayonets, beaten over the head with clubs and lashed with whips, the other two Americans being treated likewise, and the three were then taken to the Tumbala and transported to Guatemala territory and set down in a wood without food or money.

Barber returned, according to the dispatch, to Honduras and was arrested on a charge of refusing to bury the dead and kept in jail twenty-five days. He was finally released through the efforts of friends. The names of the other two Americans are not given.

Fresh Air in Winter

In winter, it is hard to get fresh air in certain rooms. Some rooms in a house are usually colder than others, and if you open the windows it is hard again to heat the room properly. If you keep the windows closed you don't get fresh air; if you keep them open you cannot quickly reheat the room. The

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER
Absolutely smokeless and odorless solves the difficulty. You can leave the windows in a room open all day in winter, and when you close them apply a match to a Perfection Oil Heater and heat the room to any temperature you desire in a few minutes.

The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in Japan or nickel. It burns for nine hours. It has a cool handle and a damper top. It has an automatic locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that the wick can be quickly cleaned. An indicator always shows amount of oil in the font.

The filler-cap does not need to be screwed down. It is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain.

The burner body of gallery cannot become wedged, because of a device in construction, and consequently, it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for reworking. The Perfection Oil Heater is strong, durable, well made, built for service, yet light and ornamental.

ORPINGTON ORIGIN.

For a poser to rattle the rooster smart aleck of your town, ask him the why and wherefore of Orpington origin.

It's sure a poultry puzzler, and William Cook of Orpington, England, must have teased his thinker tired to amalgamate so many different breeds into one, so useful and beautiful, to whose type all its varieties so well conform.

But read the story: The Black, White, Diamond Jubilee, Buff and Silver Spangled Orpingtons made their debut into chicken society in succession, soon became the leaders in England and have gained wonderfully in America by their merits and extensive advertising.

The Blacks came first (1886) and had as first blood black sport pullets from Barred Rocks. These were crossed with a Black Minorca cock, and pullets from this cross were bred to a Black

DIAMOND JUBILEE ORPINGTON.

Langshan cock, the last male putting the finish to the type, as is the rule.

The Whites result from Black Hamburg hens crossed with a Single Comb White Leghorn cock, their pullets bred to a Single Comb White Dorking cock.

The Buffs are derived from Dark Dorking pullets crossed with Golden Hamburg cock and their dark brown pullets bred to a Buff Cochon cock.

The Diamond Jubilee was made by substituting Speckled for Dark Dorking in the above combination and was so called after Queen Victoria's fiftieth anniversary of her reign.

Silver Spangled Orpingtons are the result of crossing Barred Rock hens with a Dark Dorking cock and breeding their blackest pullets to a Silver Spangled Hamburg cock bird.

Years were required to bring these varieties to such a perfection that the fifth toe of the Dorking, feather legs of Langshan and Cochon and the white ear lobes of Leghorn and Hamburg were bred out.

Memorize these chicken combinations for a memory exerciser, and also get wise to the skill and pains required to build a breed.

In originating the Orpingtons, show, nest and fine flesh were considered, and only the finest fowls were used in the combinations.

Orpingtons are not only wonderfully but well made, a mutton in parvo of the hardiest, best laying and finest table birds in existence.

DON'TS.

Don't rake muck; you'll have bad luck. Don't be grouchy; that's slouchy. The day has come in the history of events when all such cranks look like three cents.

Don't throw old litter to the winds. When well rot it's bully for the garden plot.

Don't raise forty pound turkeys for ordinary market. Medium, yellow, plump birds look slickest, sell quickest.

Cows Maintain Fertility.

A source of profit from the dairy that must not be overlooked is the value of the manure in fertilizing the fields on which the cow feed grows. The growth of cow feed will remove from the soil a less amount of fertility than the growing of any kind of grain crop for market. On the dairy farm it is not only possible for the farmer to maintain the fertility of his soil, but to make his soil richer and richer each succeeding year.

Ransomed

By JANE PINCKNEY BENNET

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Shortly before the war between the United States and Mexico Captain Julian Watriss of the United States army met at New Orleans and married Concha Herrera, a young Mexican widow who owned a large hacienda in the latter country. Senora Watriss was a very patriotic Mexican and upon the breaking out of the war went home to do what she could to serve her country. Captain Watriss sailed with his regiment for Vera Cruz and was with that army that made its way, fighting battles as it proceeded, from the gulf coast to the City of Mexico.

Senora Watriss, being very rich, organized a company of rangers at her own expense. Several commanders of this force were tried and failed. At last the troop called upon the lady to take command herself. She consented, went into the field, and under her leadership the men who followed her made quite a reputation as partisan rangers. They were not enrolled in the Mexican army, and since they were very troublesome to the United States forces the general commanding gave orders that when captured they should be shot. Several of them were taken from time to time, every one of whom was executed. In retaliation Senora Watriss gave orders that from the next lot of prisoners taken by her men five should be selected by lot for execution.

Not long after this order the rangers made a night attack on an outpost of the American army and captured a captain, a lieutenant and thirty men. The senora was not present on this occasion, having intrusted the attack to a junior officer. The first she knew of the capture was the announcement to her while in her tent that five men selected to be shot were outside, the officer in charge of them awaiting a special order to shoot them. The lady threw back her tent flap for a look at the doomed men.

Among them was her husband! What to do she did not know. To claim immunity for the man she loved would be to destroy her influence with her troops. They were all very bitter against the Americans for the execution of their comrades and were rejoiced that an officer was to be shot in retaliation. The only thing that occurred to her was delay. By staving off the execution she might find some means of saving her husband.

"Take them back to the guard tent," she said. "I am too busy now to attend to the matter."

"But, senora," protested the officer in charge, "all we wish is the order!" "Take them away," interrupted the senora impatiently. "I am not accustomed to receive suggestions from my inferiors."

The prisoners were marched off without Captain Watriss knowing that his wife had for the time being saved his life. Senora Watriss shut herself up in her tent, endeavoring to think out some plan to prevent the execution. No one suspected the relationship between her and Captain Watriss, and she did not wish it to be known. It might throw distrust upon her without saving her husband.

During the evening she gave an order—she dared not refuse one—the prisoners should be shot at 8 o'clock the next morning. At 10 o'clock that night she went the rounds to see that the guards were on post and the others asleep. Then, instead of returning to her tent, she mounted her horse, that she had picked without the line of sentries, and unseen rode away. An hour later she was taken in by an officer of an American picket post to the tent of the commanding general. After an interview of half an hour she departed, returned to her camp and stole into her tent without any one of her command knowing that she had been away.

Between dawn and sunrise an orderly came to her to say that an officer commanding a flag of truce from the American camp desired to see her. She directed that he be admitted, and he said:

"Senora, our general, understanding that a captain and four privates belonging to his army are to be shot this morning, has sent me to say that if this is done he would make it his business to capture this command and hang every member of it, including yourself. If, however, these prisoners are surrendered to him a ransom of $1,000 for each private and $5,000 for the officer will be distributed to your command."

Senora Watriss called her men together and stated the proposition. The threat at first produced a contrary effect from what was intended, but when the ransom was considered with it a change of opinion was effected. Senora Watriss watched for an opportune moment when to put the question to vote. It was almost unanimously decided to accept the ransom.

A Mexican officer and ten men were sent back with the flag of truce and all the prisoners, but it required several days to secure the ransom, during which all overt acts were suspended. Finally it arrived and was paid over. The prisoners were delivered to their commander, and the Mexicans returned to camp.

Not a man in the command knew that the senora had ransomed the prisoners.

A few days later the woman commander gave up the command of the troops and went to the City of Mexico, where after the capture of the capital she met her husband.

Dairy Herd Improvement.

Not even the most inexperienced novice in the art of breeding dairy animals need fear making a mistake by buying a pure bred registered bull of the breed of his choice. There is absolutely no other road to herd improvement for the dairyman of moderate means, and the sooner he "takes the road" the sooner he will reach higher ground in his business.
